

Greenspan was selected to design and build a woodland themed adventure golf course for a holiday park and historical hotel complex nestled amongst the stunning Pembrokeshire countryside in south west Wales. The course is made up of 18 themed holes, complimented with expertly crafted features such as woodland creatures, flora, and locally themed elements. As player make their way around the course they will hear local wildlife sound effects to further immerse them.

The Park owners wanted to boost their leisure attraction offering and rejuvenate a space right next to the main hotel building, where a dilapidated concrete tennis court sat.

Since opening, it is proving to have a massive impact on the popularity of the park, with increased bookings from both holiday seekers and outside passing visitors.
